A Square Games and Simulation, LLC partners with TheSoundWell Vibro-therapy to create the My Dream World Generator

A Square Games and Simulation, LLC (A Square), a rapid prototyping and technical solutions company is partnering with TheSoundWell, a Vibroacoustic-therapy company, and their CEO, Avigail Berg-Panitz to create a brand-new product, the My Dream World Generator.

This partnership will focus on the research and development of a state state-of-the-art system that combines the original vibroacoustic-therapy invented by Olav Skille with patented technology manufactured by TheSoudWell supported by software and virtual reality experiences created by A Square.

“The cellular sonic wave inner body massage is felt as gently as being hugger from within” says Avigail Berg-Panitz, CEO of TheSoundWell. “We use Olav Skille’s low sound frequency compositions, some of them help reduce pain and stress in different parts of the body, others help reduce insomnia and anxiety and yet others lead to deep meditation and even self-hypnosis”.

My Dream World Generator

Avigail Berg-Panitz is passionate about closing the gap between therapeutic models and self-care tools.

“The vision here is to create a tool for users at home and resellers alike” says Adrian Lannon, CEO of A Square “To be able to go home, plug into your VR headset, plug in your vibroacoustic tech and use The Dream World Generator to create customized therapy sessions” he continued “users could design sessions to induce sleep, meditate or partake in visual stimulation to develop better habits or reach a healthier state of mind”.

For Avigail, MA, the idea of integrating virtual reality with vibroacoustic-therapy stems from her interest and exploration of the Placebo Effect and Psychoneuroimmunology. By empowering individuals with the ability to create their own “scripts” of therapy and take control of their subconsciousness, Avigail aims to improve user’s proactivity, creativity, quality of life and daily performance.

My Dream World Generator is currently seeking strategic business partners in the fields of marketing, fundraising or investment.
